What is an Organizational Offender?

Chapter Eight of the Guidelines Manual governs the sentencing of corporations, partnerships, unions, trusts, pension funds, and non-profit organizations.

For some crimes, Chapter Eight provides a formula to calculate the minimum and maximum fine applicable to a defendant after consideration of several factors pertaining to culpability. In other cases, such as those involving environmental crimes, the Guidelines Manual instructs the sentencing judge to “determine the appropriate fine by applying the provisions of 18 U.S.C. §§ 3553 and 3572.” Chapter Eight also provides guidance for imposing a term of probation or other costs (such as forfeiture) against a defendant.

Organizational Offender Characteristics

- 89.9% of organizational offenders were located within the United States.
- Most organizations were closely-held or private corporations (45.9%) or limited liability companies (45.9%).
- 6.1% were publicly-traded corporations.
- 81.4% employed fewer than 50 workers; 7.0% employed 1,000 employees or more.
- 15.8% had a history of misconduct, including previous criminal or civil adjudications against the organization or pending charges.

Offense Characteristics

- The most common offenses were fraud (40.4%), environmental (25.3%), money laundering (8.1%), and import/export (4.0%) crimes.
- Of the types of environmental offenses, 40.0% were water related, 28.0% were air related, 20.0% were hazardous material related, and 12.0% were wildlife related.
- 61.6% of all organizational cases involved at least one related individual who was separately indicted in addition to the organization.
